Assistant Professor of Geology and Geological Engineering
University of Mississippi

The Department of Geology and Geological Engineering at the University of Mississippi invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track faculty position at the rank of assistant professor. Requirements are a Ph.D. in a discipline related to geological engineering at time of appointment and the ability to teach undergraduate courses in geology and geological engineering. Engineering credentials must be demonstrated by an undergraduate degree in a geological or other closely related engineering program (e.g. mining/petroleum/environmental/geotechnical engineering). Additional requirements are strong teaching and communication skills and evidence of scholarly achievement. Although the area of teaching and research expertise is open, the successful candidate will be required to contribute broadly to our geological engineering programs and complement or supplement our existing areas of expertise.

The University of Mississippi offers B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. degrees in both geology and geological engineering and M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in hydrology. We are located in the historic town of Oxford, in the wooded hills of north Mississippi. Oxford has a small college-town atmosphere with excellent public schools, affordable housing, performing arts, fine restaurants, and bookstores. The urban attractions of Memphis, Tennessee are 70 miles to the north.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled or until an adequate applicant pool is established. Apply online only at https://jobs.olemiss.edu
Applications cannot be accepted in any other format. If you need assistance with the online application process, please contact The University of Mississippi Employment Office at 662-915-1518. For additional information, contact Dr. Robert M. Holt at rmholt@olemiss.edu.
